

Election Day 2008: WCF's Endorsed Candidate Map

Facts-At-A-Glance

The 2008 election broke records for women in politics:

- The presidential election was the first to have a women running for both President and Vice President.
- The 111th Congress will have the highest ever number of women serving with 17 in the Senate (a net increase of 1) and at least 74 in the House (a net increase of 3) with two races still being decided.
- Women held their ground in Governor's races and are now controlling 8 Governor's seats.
- Voter registration, including among women, reached all-time highs in many states across the country.
